SELAMAT DATANG

To Duty Free Shopping In Malaysia At Its New Subang – KL D/F Shopping Mall located at Southern Wing of Terminal One.

Malaysia offers a great variety of exotic and bargainable goods for shoppers and is also a haven for duty free shopping. There is a selection of Duty Free shops and plazas and most items sold are competitively priced compared to other duty Free centres in South East Asia.

There is also an interesting mix of Duty Free shops located at the Subang KL International Airport, Penang International Airport and Kota Kinabalu International Airport. Duty Free shops are also easily found at vantage and strategic places in Kuala Lumpur and Penang.

Duty Free shops and plazas are found at Rantau Panjang and Pengkalan Kubur in Kelantan, Padang Besar in Perlis and Bukit Kayu Hitam in Kedah as well. Not to be missed by tourists are Malaysia's tax haven centres of Pulau Langkawi in Kedah and Labuan in Sabah.

Be fascinated by beautiful Malaysia, particularly at our Duty Free Shopping Mall at the Kuala Lumpur International Airport.

Browse around in comfort at Subang KL International Airport and catch glimpses of Malaysia's fascinating and rich culture amid an array of local handycraft.

Discover the exotic batik, intricately-made Selangor Pewter, cool pandan woven hats, hand-made tops, colourful kites and many, many more. You will also be tempted with a wider range of products – from orchids to the finest range of luxury goods, catering for arriving and departing travellers. All under one roof.

That is not all. This shopping heaven within airport comes with personalised service all at competitive prices even when compared to other cities.

It is so irresistable and unique, a return visit is guaranteed. You will be totally satisfied you did.

FOREWORD

This 25th issue of THE MALAYSIAN DUTY FREE SHOPPING GUIDE marks a milestone in Malaysian Duty Free Shopping history. Malaysia Airports Berhad, (Malaysia Airports) the corporate entity that took over the administration of airports in Malaysia from the Department of Civil Aviation on 1st November 1992, will open the new Subang-Kuala Lumpur Duty Free Shopping Mall, located at Southern Wing of Terminal One, in April this year.

Along with the launch of the new Mall, Malaysia Airports is introducing a new concept for duty free shoppers in the region. This is in line with Malaysia Airports' objective to place Malaysia in the forefront of airport duty free shopping in the region.

This concept, referred to as "The Open Concept" will promote freedom of movement by shoppers in a five-star shopping environment. The sprawling 800 foot long Mall covers an area of almost 40,000 sq. ft. The Mall will be operated by 26 different operators who have been grouped into 6 product categories viz. fashionwear, electricals and books, liquor and tobacco, food and drugs, gifts and an emporium.

In the Mall, shoppers will be enticed into a world of their own where shopping never seems to end. It will be an overwhelming and delightfully fascinating experience.

Passengers on transit will enjoy the pleasure of shopping for competitively priced products while waiting for the departure of their next flight.

Malaysia Airports aims to ensure that passengers have a pleasurable experience and at the same time promote Malaysia as the shoppers' paradise. Malaysia, although having extremely competitively priced duty free products, has long been overlooked as a major duty free shopping destination. However with the increase in flight frequency and the aggressive promotion by Malaysia Airports, Malaysia is set to rise to prominence in duty free shopping.

This innovative concept in duty free shopping offers shoppers a wide array of products in one area, as far as the eye can see, ranging from mouth-watering Swiss chocolates, designer apparel, sports products, exquisite jewellery, rich Virginia cigarettes, French Cognac, cosmetics and perfume, footware, Swiss watches and the ever popular Japanese cameras and electrical appliances to pens and souvenirs.

We welcome you to this new concept and wish you happy shopping at Malaysia's Duty Free Shops.

"AN AIRPORT SHOPPING EXPERIENCE LIKE NO OTHER"

TOURISM MALAYSIA

FOREWORD FROM THE DIRECTOR-GENERAL, MALAYSIA TOURISM PROMOTION BOARD

Duty Free Shopping is one of the more enjoyable activities of travelling. I am glad that Malaysia is fast becoming one of Asia's most sought after shopping stops.

'Varieties of branded luxury items' at 'affordable prices' are the hallmark of Duty Free Shopping in Malaysia. And, with the Visit Malaysia Year '94 campaign barely a year away, concerted efforts are being undertaken to cater to the anticipated influx of more tourists. Consequently, more Duty Free outlets have flourished throughout the country, primarily located at Labuan, Langkawi Island and Kota Kinabalu. Additionally, there are numerous Duty Free Shops in various big cities like Kuala Lumpur, Penang, Ipoh and Johor Bahru to serve both tourists and visitors.

Indeed, stopping by in Malaysia, will be a rewarding experience - a true 'value-for-money' shopping paradise with the added bonus of enjoying the warm hospitality of friendly Malaysians.

Welcome to Malaysia and happy shopping!

Duty Free Shops

Duty Free Shops are found in most airports and selected major towns in Malaysia. At the Subang KL International Airport, there is a Duty Free Plaza selling a wide variety of goods at competitive prices.

Incoming and outgoing tourists, including those in transit, are eligible to shop at Duty Free Shops at entry or exit points.

Purchases of dutiable goods at downtown Duty Free Shops are strictly for travellers leaving the country. Goods bought must be taken out of the country as advised and arranged by the shop operators.

When purchasing at downtown Duty Free shops, visitors need to produce their passports and other travel documents.

The goods bought can only be claimed at the airport departure counter by producing all relevant purchase vouchers.

For the benefit of tourists, visitors and travellers, the following is a clarification of pertinent Duty Free terms.

Dutiable Goods

Refers to all goods subject to the payment of customs duty and on which such duty has not yet been paid.

Dutiable goods sold at Duty Free Shops include liquor, cigarettes, tobacco, footwear, domestic electrical appliances, leather goods, neckties, fashion wear and chocolates.

Non-Dutiable Goods

Refers to all goods which when originally imported into Malaysia are not subject to the payment of customs duty.

Non-dutiable goods that fall under this category and sold at Duty Free Shops include cameras, watches and clocks, fountain pens, calculators and perfumes.

Duty Paid Goods

Refers to all goods subject to the payment of custom duty. The goods are cleared from Customs control on paying the customs duty.

How To Qualify

- You have been abroad for at least 72 hours.
- Travellers on transit via Singapore are also eligible for the benefits provided it is on one ticket.
- Passengers or Singaporeans flying to Singapore are permitted to purchase duty free items except liquor and cigarettes. This is because Singapore is considered as domestic destination.
- Downtown duty free shops are permitted to sell duty free items such as liquor, cigarettes, leather goods, electrical items, fashion accessories and others only on departure flights.
- All passengers/customers on international flights are entitled to purchase duty free items. (Also applicable to passengers on transit and connecting flights).
- All their purchases have to be collected at Terminal 1, Subang International Airport at the Duty Free Collection Centre. It is situated in front of counters 2 and 3. This collection procedure is prescribed because duty free items have to be declared to the custom officers.
- Passengers/customers are required to produce their passports and air tickets when purchasing duty free items.

OUR LOCAL FRUITS

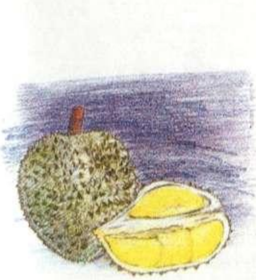

A mouth-watering array of Malaysian fruits

Much has been said about the wide variety of Malaysian cuisine and undoubtly the best way to end a sumptuous Malaysian meal is by sampling its fresh local fruits. Malaysia with its lush tropical vegetation, has fertile lands for a multitude of tropical fruits. Basically, Malaysian fruits can be divided into two categories: all-year-round fruits and seasonal fruits. The latter can be bought from make-shift stalls set up along country road-sides all over Malaysia during the fruiting seasons.

The best of all fruits is the durian (Durio zibethinus). It assaults the sense of smell of anyone within 50 metres of it. Many foreigners find the distinctive odour unpleasant while to most locals, the smell itself is enough to make them salivate. Because of its strong bouquet, airlines and hotels do not permit durians to be brought into their vicinities.

According to a great naturalist, Alfred Wallace '... the more you eat it (durian), the less you feel inclined to stop'. Durian consumption is certainly an acquired taste, as the smell may well be daunting for some people.

The name durian is derived from the Malay word duri for thorns. The fruit has a thick, thorny shell that is pale dive-green when ripe. The size varies from that of slightly bigger than a baseball to the size of a football and it is not necessarily round because some are kidney-shaped while others are elongated.

To get to the flesh, one must work one's way through the stout thorns and some skills are required here. Holding the fruit firmly with a piece of cloth, a sharp knife is used as a crowbar and is inserted into one of the seams that run from the base to the apex of the durian. The knife is then twisted to push the thorny carpels apart.

Only then will the 'king of fruits', as the durian is fondly referred to, reveal his 'golden' heart. The golden flesh which is rich in flavour, ranges anywhere from sweetness to a tinge of bitterness accompanied by a taste of alcohol and has a firm custard texture that melts in the mouth.

Being such a much sought after fruit, the durian is not only eaten raw but is also consumed in various ways, for example, cooked with sugar (lempok), preserved (tempoyak) and eaten with rice, cooked with coconut milk (pengat) and eaten with glutinous rice, and as flavouring for ice cream and cakes. Durian seasons are from November to February and June to August. Places famous for their top grade durians are Balik Pulau in Penang and Parit Buntar in Perak.

In season with durian is his 'queen' - mangosteen (Garcina mangostana). Unlike the durian, mangosteen is appealing to both the eye and the palate. On the outside, the smooth firm rind of the fruit is pale green that ripens to a dark purple or a rich red-purple. The apex is crowned with five to eight flat woody lobes and the amount of these lobes tally with the amount of fruit segments within the rind. The aesthetic quality of this tennis-ball sized fruit is downplayed only until the rind is pressed open by squeezing the fruit between the heels of one's palms.

Inside are segments of pearly white segments that are usually sweet accompanied with a tinge of tartness. They are soft and juicy - just perfect for dessert. To sample this unique fruit, one must eat it fresh as the flesh of the fruit will get soggy after being kept for some time.

'Stop by for a slice of juicy fruit on a' warm sunny day

The other indigene Malaysian fruit is the rambutan (Nephelium lappaceum). This is a favourite among visitors and is often described as 'Hairy Cherry'. The name rambutan comes from the Malay word rambut which means 'hair'. This small oblong fruit (a bit smaller than the size of an egg) has an easily removable outer peel that is covered with fuzzy hair. This peel turns from green to yellow and then to red as the fruit ripens. However, there are certain types of rambutans that are ripe when they are greenish-yellow.

Each fruit has a seed surrounded by white pulp of varying thickness. The flesh is translucent, chewy and juicy but its flavour and quality vary from hybrid to hybrid. Those of a better quality have sweet fruits with a mild, subacid flavour. A hybrid known as 'rambutan lekang' is much sought after as the flesh comes away easily from the seed. Rambutans are now canned and are sometimes stuffed with pineapple chunks. Canned rambutans can be found in most supermarkets in Malaysia. Otherwise, rambutans are often sold in bunches of 50s during its fruiting season between June and September.

Multi-leaved 'cabbage' coral

A coral reef is an assemblage of many types of plants and animals. Corals form one of the dominant components of the reef. The hard corals are actually skeletons of a large amount of tiny animals known as coral polyps. The coral polyps and other reef-building organisms remove calcium and carbonate ions from the sea water and deposit these as intricate calcium carbonate skeletons. These skeletons form the basis of massive coral reefs.

There are various of corals such as the branching 'staghorn' corals, the huge rounded 'brain' corals and the multi-leaved 'cabbage' corals. Although they can be brightly coloured, the colour disappears with the death of the coral polyps.

The coral polyps need sunlight to survive and thus most coral reefs do not form below a depth of 100 m. Besides that, the coral reefs breed well in warm sea temperatures above 70°F (21°C) with high, stable salinity. Hence they are only found in clear, shallow tropical seas away from the river estuaries.

Besides its captivating beauty, the coral reefs protect coastlines from the erosive power of the ocean and serve as major breeding and nursery grounds for large numbers of commercial fish, molluscs, lobsters and prawns.

Noting the importance of maintaining and conservating the coral reefs, Malaysia has taken steps to establish marine parks under the Fisheries Act 1985. A marine park is an area of the sea zoned as sanctuary for the coral reef community. There are four zones located within the waters of Peninsular Malaysia. Islands in the zones are Pulau Redang, Pulau Paya, Pulau Perhentian, Pulau Sibu and 20 others.

Prohibited activities in the marine park includes fishing, water-skiing, speed boat-racing, spear-fishing, collecting corals and other aquatic life, anchoring of boats over coral areas and carrying and using weapons that endanger aquatic life.

SATAY

Ingredients
1.5 kg chicken - deboned
1 stalk lemon grass
1 tsp sugar
1 tsp cummin
1 tsp coriander
½ tsp powdered cinnamon
2 tbsps roasted peanuts
2 tbsps cooking oil
2.5 cm piece fresh tumeric
8 shallots
Salt to taste

Method:

Cube the chicken meat, drain and put aside.

Grind coriander, cummin, tumeric, peanuts, salt and sugar. Mix this with the powdered cinnamon, diced shallots and 1 tbsp cooking oil. Marinate the chicken with this mixture.

Using skewers, pierce 5 pieces of meat on one skewer, as in kebabs.

Grill over burning coal, constantly sprinkling cooking oil over the meat using crushed lemon grass.

Turn over and continue grilling until the chicken is cooked.

Serve with peanut sauce.

PEANUT SAUCE

Ingredients
1 cup sugar
1 bombay onion
½ cup tamarind juice
2 stalks lemon grass
2.5 cm piece ginger
3 tbsps pounded chillis
300 gms peanuts - roasted
A piece of galangal
Salt to taste

Method:

Grind the roasted peanuts. Put aside.

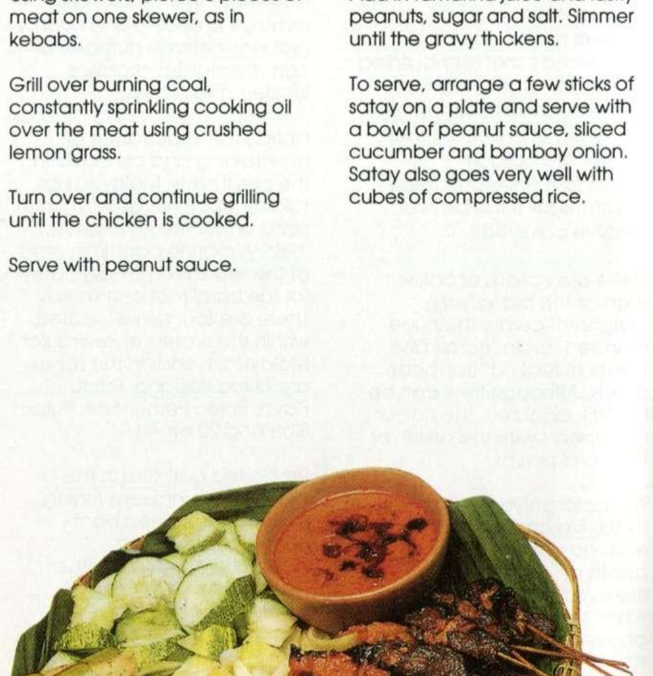

Grind lemon grass, ginger and galangal until fine.

Slice bombày onion and stir fry until soft.

Add in ground chillis and the other ground ingredients.

Add in tamarind juice and lastly peanuts, sugar and salt. Simmer until the gravy thickens.

To serve, arrange a few sticks of satay on a plate and serve with a bowl of peanut sauce, sliced cucumber and bombay onion. Satay also goes very well with cubes of compressed rice.
